REFLECTIONS on today's scriptures (pp.87-89 of the Mass Book) We move into the second phase of the Advent season this Sunday, and look to celebrating the birth of Our Saviour in historic time. We meet Jesus in today's gospel near the river lordan, present but unknown to the people thronging around John the Baptist. Jesus, our now risen Lord, is present in our world but, alas, there are so many people who do not know him. There are many who think they know something about Him but have a very distorted image. Most people have a vague idea of why Christmas is a time of celebration, even if lesus does not figure in their lives. That fact in turn reminds us, that we can make Him known to others, provided His light already burns within us. So, let us use these days, between now and Christmas, to reflect on who Jesus is for us and, through every act of kindness, every greeting, every word of witness to our faith, we will make Him present in the lives of others. Then they may 'get' why Christians must rejoice at His birth.

19 and 20 December at 7.30pm in the Cathedral, Christmas Celebration with orchestra and famous readers. Never been? You've missed a treat! Go to www.ticketmaster.co.uk and type in Westminster Cathedral when prompted.

Church Cleaning rota
Volunteers wanted to help out with cleaning for I hour from 9.30am on Saturdays 23 and 30 December

First Reading: Isaiah 61.1–2, 10–11 This is the great mission statement that Jesus chose to read on day one of His public ministry (Lk 4.16–18). He had come to proclaim the Lord's favour to lives blighted by sin, and to reconcile the world to God and to itself. Freedom is a frequent rallying call in world history – but Jesus's way to it is unique!! What are the ingrained problems of our day, and our lives, which we would like the Lord to set us free from this Christmas?

Second Reading: I Thessalonians 5.16–24 Paul is still talking to the young Christian community of Thessalonica about the second coming of Christ. They – we! – must not be passive but active: not tread water, but swim towards Him, actively pursuing the things that God asks of us.

Gospel: St John 1.6–8, 19–28 We'll be reading St John's gospel at quite often over the next few weeks. Even though, like St Mark (our Year B gospel), John has no account of Jesus' birth, he, like Mark, puts John the Baptist centre stage on page one.

Which Christmas meal is most important? Christmas Dinner or Holy Communion? Which will you put most effort into preparing? Please note there will be opportunities throughout this week for Confession. There is no better way to receive Christ, than into a heart prepared for Him.

Cribs at 800 2023 is the year that marks the eighth centenary of the Nativity scene that St Francis set up in Greccio, close to the Italian city of Rieti.

'I would like', Francis said, 'to represent the Baby born in Bethlehem, and let people see, with their own eyes, ... how He was laid in a feeding trough, on the straw between the ox and the ass.' That's how Franciscan sources describe the desire that burned in Francis's heart in late I 223: to represent Jesus's birth in a way that would help everyone, at a glance, take in the truth of God made man.

Our crib here at St William's will be in a new place this year – next to the altar of Our Lady – to try to fulfil Francis's desire to encourage greater personal devotion to Christ.

You will also find, in the Narthex, a short set of prayers for blessing your crib at home.

A long weekend coming up This year we've got two holy days of obligation next to each other - Sunday and then Christmas Day. Perhaps you've been asking yourself, 'Can a faithful Catholic somehow observe both by participating in only one Mass?' The straight answer is, 'Sorry, no'. Two obligations, two Masses. The options look like this:

- I Two vigils (Sat 23 and Sun 24)
- 2 Two days (Sun 24 and Mon 25)
- 3 'Long weekend' (Sat 23 and Mon 25 take Sunday off)

4 'Super Sunday' (Sun 24^-8 or 10am, then 5.30 or 10pm) These are also your options, wherever in the world, or the UK, you may be lucky enough to be going on holiday for Christmas. Two obligations; two Masses.

Christmas Collections Since this year Christmas falls so close to a Sunday we wanted to make it clear that any offering given in the normal planned giving methods is for the benefit of the Church. Anything given in the special Christmas Offering envelopes will be for the benefit of Fr Jonathan. As in previous years, should you prefer to make a separate donation to Fr Jonathan at any time then you should mark the envelope for the attention of Fr Jonathan.
